

Axis Communications is Export Company of the Year 2009

Axis Communications received the Swedish Export Prize from His Majesty the King at an award ceremony held at Cirkus in Stockholm on Tuesday evening. The award is given to a “Swedish company that has displayed a strong export trend during recent years with successes on several markets, which at the same time displays good profitability and positive development of the Swedish operations”

“Axis Communications was the first to launch network cameras. Through rapid product development and a sales model, where Axis systematically supported its distributors via its own offices, the company has captured the position of international market leader”

In the picture (from left to right): Mr. Ewa Björling, Ministry of Trade, His Majesty King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden, Ray Mauritsson, CEO of Axis Communications and Ulf Berg, President Swedish Trade Council.