

Welcome to Axis!

The French office of the world leader in network video.

About Axis

Axis Communications was founded in 1984 by Mikael Karlsson, Martin Gren and Keith Bloodworth. The previous year, Martin Gren and Mikael Karlsson had started to create Gren & Karlsson Firmware. At the end of the 80s, Axis was one of the three global leaders in protocol converters/printer interfaces.

With the launch of new technologies and the growing importance of network accessibility, Axis expanded its connectivity goals towards integrated solutions for network printing and document management in wired and wireless environments. In response to the convergence towards IP-based systems, Axis also focused on video surveillance applications, remote monitoring and web broadcasting increasingly, and introduced the first network video camera in the market in 1996.

Despite the long road Axis has travelled since then, one thing has not changed – Axis' dedication to offer to the market network-based products for video surveillance, access control, intercom, and audio systems, enhanced by intelligent analytics applications and supported by high-quality training. To make cities safer and better to live in. To help companies protect and grow their businesses - and understand their customers better. To prevent incidents – even before they happen.

And to improve patient care – safely.

In 1996, Axis launched its French branch in Cachan, near Paris. Since then, several different offices and new colleagues led Axis France to Bagneux in 2018. The first Experience Center in the region dedicated to our customers and partners took shape.

What to do in

Paris is quite well known as the City of Art, you can visit one of our favorite museums: le Louvre close from the garden les Tuileries, Musée Quai Branly along the Seine or Musée Quai d'Orsay, a former train station, specialized in romanticism and realism movements.

You could continue by a visit of monuments as Eiffel Tower in the Champs de Mars or to have a nice view on it from the place of Trocadéro, then walk along the Champs Elysée until reaching the Triumph Arc.

If you enjoy walking, go have a look on the church La Madeleine, on the Panthéon where famous people rest (Josephine Baker, Simone Veil, Marie Curie), Basilic Sacré-Coeur of Montmartre and its cobblestones streets, park of Buttes Chaumont (former stones quarry)...

To experience night life in Paris, several places with different atmospheres are recommended: on Place de la République or les Arènes of Juvisy you could find dancers in the streets on Pigalle, among glitters, you will see famous cabarets as le Moulin Rouge along the Seine, you have many barges and guinguettes.

Basically, you can go in the center and let your steps lead you to the streets of Paris, you will find something to do, to see or to taste.
